"Eliza, as a teacher, has a wonderful capacity for combining character development with dialect proficiency that heightens the actors performance. As an actor herself, she has the ability to break through other actors' resistance with a minimum of effort and a maximum of result."

Brian Nefsky, Sr. Casting Associate, Walt Disney Imagineering

"She worked with me on the piece that helped secure my roles in PIXAR's "Ratatouille" and she hasn't stopped since. I am a loyal advocate for Eliza in every setting that holds perfection in its' list of necessities."

Julius Callahan, Actor

Eliza Jane Schneider has taught at the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (AFTRA), the Screen Actor's Guild (SAG) Conservatory at the American Film Institute (AFI) in Hollywood, The International Academy of Film and Television, Brown University, The O'Neill Theater Center, and is founding President of the Eliza Doolittle Dialects school, coaching celebrities and developing talent for dialect roles in film and television since 1992.
